TouchTone Communications Enters Wireless Marketplace

Whippany, NJ (October 29, 2007) – TouchTone Communications, a full-service communications provider, is pleased to announce its entry into the Wireless market, providing service to residential and business customers in all 48 contiguous states. Plans accommodate voice, data, text and international needs.

“We aren’t just another Wireless service provider,” commented Scott Croker, TouchTone’s Director of Product Development. “We deliver the same network reliability and competitive prices as larger service providers but with the added benefit of quick and friendly customer service. Our customers and channel partners are greeted by live operators, not by automated messages.”

Wireless services compare with top service providers, offering competitively priced plans, feature-rich mobile phones and devices from popular name brands, and perks such as no domestic roaming or long distance charges, free night and weekend, and unlimited mobile-to-mobile minutes.

“The wireless market is constantly evolving due to advancements in wireless technologies and applications. This creates countless opportunities for telecom agents,” shared TouchTone channel partner Bernard Lunak of the Railroad Employees Telephone Network. “I’ve been a TouchTone agent for almost 6 years and they have yet to let me or my customers down.”

Customers can sign up for Wireless, Long Distance, Local and soon VoIP service, by contacting the Company directly or through an Authorized TouchTone Agent.
